

What is the Georgia Association of Chiefs of Police?

Incorporated in 1962, the GACP has grown in membership, influence and professionalism to become one of the most respected law enforcement associations in the state. It is the largest professional association for law enforcement administrators in the State of Georgia and one of the largest in the country. Membership includes more than 1200 professionals and executives representing municipal and county law enforcement agencies, college and university police departments, corporate and private security firms and numerous state and federal agencies. Among the rolls of the GACP are judges, lawyers, law enforcement instructors, elected and appointed government officials and other individuals who promote law enforcement through their official positions.

Our Mission

GACP's mission is to improve the quality of police services in the State of Georgia through increased training, assistance to police executives, promote unity of purpose between public and private law enforcement agencies and public education efforts while ensuring that all of our citizens are served in a professional, ethical, equitable and cost-efficient manner that respects the rights of individuals, protects our democratic ideals and system of government and improves the quality of life in our communities.

Training

Training

GACP offers executive training programs (POST approved) at two annual statewide conferences (Winter & Summer). Both conferences focus on current issues of interest to law enforcement administrators and attract hundreds of law enforcement officials, which gives you the opportunity to network with our members as well as view the latest law enforcement products/equipment available for law enforcement officials.

GACP sponsors numerous regional education opportunities during the year and offers a 60-hour state mandated training program twice per year for newly appointed chiefs/heads of law enforcement agencies (also known as Chief Executive Training Program) designed to improve management skills and define the responsibilities and obligations of the office of a chief/head of a law enforcement agency.
