

What is the Georgia Association of Chiefs of Police?

Incorporated in 1962, the GACP has grown in membership, influence and professionalism to become one of the most respected law enforcement associations in the country. It is the largest professional association for law enforcement administrators in the State of Georgia and one of the largest in the country. Membership includes more than 1,200 professionals and executives representing municipal and county law enforcement agencies, college and university police departments, corporate and private security firms and numerous state and federal agencies. Among the rolls of the GACP are judges, lawyers, law enforcement instructors, elected and appointed government officials and other individuals who promote law enforcement through their official positions.

Our Mission

GACP's mission is to improve the quality of police services in the State of Georgia through increased training, assistance to police executives, promote unity of purpose between public and private law enforcement agencies and education efforts while ensuring that all of our citizens are served in a professional, ethical, equitable and cost-efficient manner that respects the rights of individuals; protects our democratic ideals and system of government and improves the quality of life in our communities.
